When Joy suddenly dies, she gets a unique invitation: spend her afterlife in an eternity of blissful happiness but she turns down the offer.

SYNOPSIS

Joy (16) floats in a vast empty Void along with other recently deceased people. She is told that she is worthy of the utopian afterlife. But she turns it down. She says she is responsible for the death of her parents - so she is not worthy. Right now, her parents are trapped in the awful City of Lost Souls, itself inside the belly of a giant monster that floats through the Void swallowing souls. Joy is determined to go in and get her parents to a better place. This is bad news for security intern Oogle (16) who is handcuffed to her and cannot find his key. In reality, blame for Joy's parents deaths lie with mega-corporation H&H, and the stakes for finding her parents unharmed, ramp up with the revelation that H&H don't just operate in the world of the living, but also run this monster-ship as a kind of exploitative, privatised afterlife. If Joy can find her parents, they will each be able to combine a part of a code they stole from H&H which would spell disaster for the City of Lost Souls, but the most powerful beings imaginable are determined to keep that from happening. Even so, Joy's compulsion to sacrifice herself are her greatest enemies, and they will cost her more than she can imagine.

SYNOPSIS

Monsters live in a hidden world, away from humans whom they fear. The monsters are so different and have so diverse interests that they have some rivalries. But Nessy, Yetti, Shewolf and Coco have created some sort of a family. But one night, a 4-year-old girl named Hanna discovers Coco in her room and she follows him to Monsterville. But when she arrives, they panic: if she is not returned in time, she might get trapped in Monsterville forever and humans will come looking for her. They are scared of her, but they manage to accept her differences. But when the Cyclop and Gargoyle, their rivals, kidnap the girl, they will have to put their differences aside to save Hanna from a dark plan.

SYNOPSIS

BLACK BUTTERFLIES begins in a heartbreaking present before revisiting the lost pasts of the main characters. It tells their stories and fight to survive while preserving their identities. These three lives, like many others, are affected by global warming and deserve attention. The World Bank estimates that by 2050, climate change will force 143 million people from Latin America, Africa, and South Asia to leave their homes, mostly from regions that have contributed little to the problem.

SYNOPSIS

When Manu was a kid he felt platonically in love with the great pianist Stella Panini and has been dying to meet her ever since. In an attempt to make his lifelong dream come true, and following the advice of a rather shady character, Stefano Salegi (who later becomes his manager), he decides to form an orchestra. But as well as being a tenacious dreamer, Manu is also an outsider who has trouble finding his place in the world, as is evident in his choice of musical instrument: a broom. However, this does not stop him from bringing together a unique band of quirky musicians made up of a double-bass player whose armpits start to itch when she gets nervous, a pair of twins who play all kinds of wind instruments and have a supernatural sense of smell, a moustached countertenor and a percussionist who does his best to play a triangle which an annoying goldfinch keeps insisting on using as a perch. They are accompanied by a goat, much like those often seen with travelling gypsies, which has an amazing ability to climb right up to the top of a step ladder.

A boy with a heart of stone sets out to the In-Between-World to face the scariest thing in the world: a friend!

SYNOPSIS

Erik (11) is convinced he has a stone for a heart. That's why he doesn't mind that his parents have no time for him or that he has no real friends. When his family moves to a villa they inherited from aunt Brunhilda, he discovers another family living there – Maria (11) and her dad whom Erik's parents want to kick out. When the family gets an eviction notice, Maria activates her secret plan to bring back her missing mother to save them. Together they end up on a fantastical journey to the In-Between-World and Erik learns how hard it really is to wear a heart of stone.

Valentina is fed up of her Down's syndrome, convinced that it prevents her from making her dream true: becoming a trapeze artist. But a magical journey will reveal to her all that she is capable of doing.

SYNOPSIS

Valentina dreams of becoming a trapeze artist but believes she will never be able to make it because she has Down's syndrome. Her grandmother — who teaches her to play chess and sing — always encourages her to never give up: If caterpillars can turn into butterflies, nothing is impossible! We must never feel disenchanting nor lose the desire to learn. But Valentina is not very convinced, she thinks that a worm is too disgusting to become a butterfly... When she is about to ask her about it again, Mum and Dad give her some disconcerting news: Grandmother went away on a trip. Without even saying goodbye?! Accompanied by her inseparable mouse, Chiqui, and the fun team on her chessboard, Valentina embarks on a thrilling musical adventure in search of Grandmother. The journey will make her learn to choose what she wants and go for it, but always being herself.

Winner of the 2018 European Children's Film Association Award at the Schlingel Festival in Chemnitzcritical thinking.

SYNOPSIS

The universe must have lots of mistakes, thinks ten-year-old Matti. Otherwise people would be much happier. His father Sulo wouldn't be a bus driver but a computer game developer, just like he dreams of being. His mother wouldn't have to resent her bad-tempered boss at the doctor's office anymore. And Matti himself would have taken a vacation with his family in Sulo's home country, Finland, a long time ago. So Matti decides to help fortune out a little bit by inventing a lottery prize. He actually manages to lure Mama, Papa and his little brother Sami to Finland. But because big, fat lies usually have unforeseen consequences, the family suddenly finds itself in the middle of the Finnish Pampas with no money, no roof over their heads and no car keys. Now Matti urgently needs a miracle. But is the universe responsible for such things?

It is a film about a special place and a special friendship. A family picture that combines the nostalgia of "Cinema Paradiso" and the magic of "Mary Poppins" in a Middle Eastern setting.

SYNOPSIS

Jerusalem, 1938, the British rule Palestine. The Rex movie theater opens in a grand gala. The unique location is already evident on opening night. The movie theater is the border of Jewish and Arab neighborhoods in Jerusalem, with the British police station across the street. For a while the place helped put aside the bitter conflict and created a melting pot in which there was one common language – the language of cinema. Every night British, Arab and Jewish people came to the Rex to watch movies together. At the center of the plot are two 10-year-olds: Moeiz, a Jewish boy and Ranin, an Arab girl. They get in and out of films, from Errol Flynn's "Robin Hood" to the best of Egyptian cinema, and within a short time they form a close friendship based on a common language and love of the cinema. The Rex becomes the center of their lives and they believe they found their destiny. Meanwhile, outside the cinema reality goes on.
